A test Document

Erarnitox - David Partsch

DropSoft

ABSTRACT

This Documentööäää is an example Document on how to use drop-mark-down.Which is a wrapper around groff for easy writing of papers to be published on dropsoft.org

28 February 2022

1. Heading

This was and example heading.

a new line.The same line

1.1. A sub heading

1.1.1. And so on

You get the point.

$$. PPs = \sqrt{\frac{\sum\limits_{i=1}^{\infty}(x_i - \bar{x})^2}{N-1}}$$

1.1.1.1. down deeep

Goes down to 6 sub levels

This is a small quoted paragraph. I really hope this will work!

1.2. Testing bold text

This is a small test for bold text.

1.3. Testing italic text

This is a small test for italic text.

1.4. Pictures

28 February 2022

description

Welcome to the 36th chamber!

1.5. Code

some source highlighting[1] , which can be very useful to have tbh. no one will write or read code without some cool colors!

28 February 2022

```cpp
#include <iostream>

int main(){
    std::cout << "Hello World!" << std::endl;
}
```

```cpp
#include <iostream>

int main(){
    std::cout << "Hello World!" << std::endl;
}
```

Table of Contents

References

1.    Lorenzo Bettini, GNU Source Highlight (2001).

28 February 2022